

Whistleblower Protection Policy

General

The Hunger Project requires directors, officers, and staff to observe high standards of business and personal ethics in the conduct of their duties and responsibilities. Staff and representatives of the organization must practice honesty and integrity in fulfilling their responsibilities and comply with all applicable laws and regulations.

Scope

This policy applies to all THP staff, volunteers, interns, (consortium) partners, consultants, contractors, suppliers, stakeholders and any other person(s) associated with THP. In particular, the Whistleblowing facility should be used to report corruption, fraud, money laundering, aid diversion, human trafficking, slavery, Sexual Exploitation, Abuse and Harassment (SEAH), concerns about children and vulnerable adults, funding of proscribed groups or organizations, and any other violations of concern related to THP, the people associated, and its projects.

Reporting Responsibility

Any staff member who has engaged in, or who reasonably suspects any other staff or Board member of the organization of engaging in, any violation of the law, regulations or ethical standards must report such activity as soon as possible. Such activity may include, but is not limited to, financial wrongdoing (including violation of internal controls or the accounting policies of the organization), fraud, harassment, or any other illegal or unethical conduct.

No Retaliation

No director, officer, or staff member who in good faith reports a violation shall suffer harassment, retaliation, or adverse employment consequence. Any staff member who retaliates against someone who has reported a violation in good faith is subject to discipline up to and including termination of employment. This Whistleblower Protection Policy is intended to encourage and enable staff and others to raise serious concerns within the organization prior to seeking resolution outside the organization.

Reporting Violations

This document addresses the organization's open-door policy and suggests that staff share their questions, concerns, suggestions, or complaints with someone who can address them

Note: In order to comply with any provision of national laws/regulations or specific funding agreement that go beyond THP's global policies, when needed, The Hunger Project may develop additional local policies or procedures to meet those requirements. In no circumstances will additional local policies or procedures serve to weaken or contradict this global policy. When such additional policies/procedures are required, they will be developed in consultation with the Global Office. If this policy contravenes national laws/regulations, the respective country's law/regulations will take precedence in alignment with the spirit of the global policy.

properly. In most cases, a staff member's supervisor is in the best position to address an area of concern. However, if a staff member is not comfortable speaking with their supervisor or is not satisfied with the supervisor's response, the staff member is encouraged to speak with Human Resources or anyone in management whom you are comfortable approaching. Supervisors and managers are required to report suspected violations to a member of the Executive Team and/ or President/CEO. Furthermore, if a staff member does not believe that these channels of communication can or should be used to express their concerns, the staff member may contact the Chair of the Governance, Nominating and Human Resources Committee of the Board by emailing gnhrchair@thp.org. All reports will be promptly investigated and appropriate corrective action will be taken if warranted by the investigation. Reports are preferred in writing and may be made anonymously. The organization shall file all back up documentation related to reports and actions taken.
